SUNDAY LITURGY

1st Reading: Isaiah 5:1-7; 2nd Reading: Philippians 4:6-9; Gospel: Matthew 21:33-43

Theme: The Vineyard of the Lord

The first reading and the gospel use the image of a vineyard. Israel, says Isaiah, is the vineyard that the Lord loved, but it yielded only sour grapes. Jesus takes up that same image but with a difference: Isaiah says that the vineyard will be destroyed; Jesus states that the tenants will be replaced and the vineyard will be kept. These two readings, taken together, complement each other. The short passage from the letter to the Philippians can be connected to the theme of this Sunday. Paul insists on the concrete aspect of Christian life. The mark of authenticity of faith are the works of love; fruits that all appreciate.

Response to the Psalm: The vineyard of the Lord is the house of Israel.

Gospel Acclamation:

Alleluia, alleluia!

I chose you out of the world, says the Lord, that you should go and bear fruit, and that your fruit should abide.

Alleluia.

Building News. The Fabric Committee meets regularly with the Quantity Surveyor and the Diocesan Finance Director, to update us on progress towards the starting of works on the repairs to the church. We expect to have machinery and equipment on site – on the garden – early in 2027. We are looking for volunteers to help us to list items within the church for removal to safe storage before works begin. We will also be moving the ashes of some of our late parishioners who are buried in the garden – along the wall of the church. Permission for reburial of ashes has been granted. Family (if there are any living) of those whose resting places we move, will be notified.

Diocesan Newspaper for October is available at the back of the church. Please take a copy home with you.
